JESD 'Holiday Cheer'

Money, Fringe Hikes

Taxpayers presented Jefferson Elementary School District employees with $206,000 worth of holiday cheer this week in Daly City.

Trustees, meeting in separate sessions Monday and again yesterday, granted these increases of benefits and salaries:

— Two per cent for all employees, including teachers — retroactive (if legislation permits) to July 1, with some exceptions for persons in specific positions (such as secretaries, a five per cent range adjustment; cafeteria workers, 2½ per cent; PEX operator, 7½ per cent; instructional aides, five per cent).

— An income protection plan for non-teaching employees of 60 per cent of their gross salaries.

S.S.F. Animal Described as 'Appalling'

South San Francisco officials were told in no uncertain terms Monday that the city's animal ordinance was "appalling."

The charge came from several members of Pets and Pals, an animal lovers society headquartered in Oakland, with members throughout the Bay Area.

Mrs. D. A. Sergeant, the head of the organization, explained the reason she and others were in attendance was because of an agenda item "related to the limiting of dogs to households."

She had reviewed the city's existing ordinance, drafted in 1967, and said, "I'm appalled at the ordinance you have. I've never seen one as inhumane."

Mrs. Sergeant wanted to speak to the issue of limiting dogs but the council whizzed through the approval of the ordinance. (Please See Page 2, Column 2) up to $1000 monthly, dental coverage for employee dependents, involving a $3.95 monthly contribution by the employee, $10,000 in life insurance, and $10,000 in accidental death insurance, both fully paid by the district.

Teachers already have the fringe benefit package, so the boost for them involves only salary, according to Roger Barthuli, associate superintendent for business.

The retroactivity covers both freeze and teacher strike periods, but for the teachers participating in the September strike "salaries will be adjusted accordingly," Barthuli said.

The increase represents an average of 5.1 per cent for all employees, with the cost estimated by Barthuli to be $145,000 for 464 teachers and $61,000 for 150 non-teaching personnel.

Barthuli estimated that the benefit and wage boost represents about 12 cents on the tax rate. He said sufficient monies exist in the general fund.

New BART Fare Schedule

Patrons of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system will not have to pay an extra five cents to cross the San Francisco County line into Daly City.

A new fare schedule was hammered out during a meeting of BART's Board of Directors Monday in their new Oakland offices.

Previously it had been anticipated that BART patrons would pay the added amount inasmuch as the Daly City station was in San Mateo County — and San Mateo was not a participant in the over-all tri-county transit system.

Except for a similar five cent decrease in the Concord to San Francisco fare ($1.20) the fares will remain the same as recommended earlier: 30 cents within San Francisco; 55 cents from downtown Oakland to San Francisco.

Service Station Robbed

A South San Francisco service station was robbed on Tuesday by two shotgun toting bandits who escaped with an estimated $600.

Police said two men, described as male Negroes in their 20's, with one carrying a double-barrel shotgun, held up the American Service Station, dan.

Callan and Westborough, at 5:55 a.m.

According to authorities, the men approached Manager Ronald Johnson, 25, and ordered him to give them money from a safe, and also took cash from Johnson.

Police said the pair was last seen driving away in a white sedan.

Narcotics Suspect Held

A Los Angeles man was arrested as he transferred what Daly City police detectives said was $4000 worth of marijuana from one car to another Wednesday night.

The police booked 23-year-old Robert Jason and confiscated 15 kilos of marijuana, a police spokesman said.

The arrest was made at Mission and Theta Streets after Jason drove up in a car, opened its trunk and began unloading the marijuana, putting it in a second parked car, police alleged.

County Is Promised A Vote on Transit

By FRANK LAPIERRE

San Mateo County citizens will get a chance to vote on plans to implement rapid transit on the Peninsula, the San Francisco Airport Access Board of Control agreed Wednesday.

The board, in a unanimous vote, accepted the SFAAP consultants' recommendations to extend the Bay Area Rapid Transit system (BART) into San Mateo County, at least as far as the airport.

They called for establishment of a Policy Committee made up of representatives from BART, San Francisco and San Mateo counties to begin informal negotiations on just how to implement not only a Daly City-to-Airport segment of the line, but also a countywide system.

A related study of transit southward from International Airport is now under way and some information is beginning to filter in for evaluation by the board, a SFAAP official said.

Once negotiators finalize conditions of implementing transit here, their findings and recommendations will be brought back to their respective boards of supervisors who will act on them and forward the matter back to the SFAAP Board of Control.

Whatever course of action is decided upon will then be placed before voters of San Mateo County.

There are two methods of agreement open: One would be annexation, the second would be to create a separate joint-venture agency between the principal parties concerned.

Annexation would add San Mateo County as a fourth full (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Mandatory Bike Fee Plan Set

A mandatory bicycle licensing program is being established in South San Francisco.

Between January and July of 1970 there were 184 bicycles reported stolen in South San Francisco. The loss was estimated at $9,875.38.

For the same period in 1971, police said 225 bikes were taken. This loss was estimated at $14,644.55.

To help combat this increasing problem, pedestrian-bicycle safety officer Frank Brown is being assisted by Officers Mike Dickson and Art Toscano in developing a bicycle licensing program for South San Francisco.

The program will make it mandatory to license a bicycle in the city. Cost of the license will be $2, to be paid only once, unless there is a change of ownership of the bike. At that time a $2 transfer of license fee will be charged.

Police said that if a bicycle is not licensed, a citation and fine may be imposed.

It is the belief of police that once all the bicycles in the city are licensed it will be extremely easy for beat officers, as well as officers in other cities, to check ownership and take any action appropriate.

Ron Sullivan, community relations and public information officer said as soon as necessary materials have been compiled more information will be passed on to the residents, along with a list of licensing designated areas.

Car Hits, Kills San Franciscan On DC Street

A pedestrian was struck and killed while crossing Mission Street in Daly City Thursday by a San Francisco man later charged by police with drunken driving and vehicular manslaughter.

The victim was identified as John Joseph Boyd, 43, of 4922 Hayward Street, Los Alamos. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital about 11:30 p.m.

Police arrested driver Willie Nelson, 52, of 277 Minerva Street, San Francisco on felony drunk driving and vehicular manslaughter following the 11:20 p.m. accident at the corner of Mission and Como Streets.

Second Apartment Plan

DC Senior Complex Denied

A request for a second senior citizens' apartment complex in the Mission-Market street area has been turned down by the Daly City planning commission.

The commission rejected the request of Philip B. Wallace after it had gained support of City Planner John Walker and his staff.

Commissioner Alfred Banfield, a resident of the neighborhood where Wallace proposes building 120 units for low income seniors, expressed fears persons from outside Daly City might move into the apartments transforming the area into "another Hunters Point or slum area."

Banfield's statements were made during a December 16 Commission meeting on the matter.

He said the impact of 400-500 elderly citizens housed in one district of Daly City would not be desirous and that parking was already extremely congested there.

Senior Citizens' spokesman, Mrs. Virgil Davis, said her group had not reviewed the matter as yet, however studies made during previous hearings on another senior complex indicated some 455 residents of Daly City are eligible and would desire such housing.

The Commission felt, however, that the uncertainty of forthcoming federal funding, coupled with needed variances for parking, dictated they deny the request.

Instead of acting on the matter Monday the council decided to continue the issue pending studies.

Park Study Urged for Bruno Mtn.

The San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Commission is recommending that the Board of Supervisors authorize a study of a new proposal for a regional park of San Bruno Mountain.

It is proposed that the Regional Planning Committee and the Parks and Recreation Department coordinate the study for a 384-acre "resource" type park, as contrasted to a "use" park with frontage on and access from Guadalupe Parkway near the saddle area where the RPC has recommended a 350-acre park.

Developed in conjunction with the county and the Crocker Land Company, the new park proposal would locate the park site adjacent to open space anticipated in the development plan for the area to coordinate riding and hiking trails.

Frank Calton, speaking on behalf of Crocker, said the idea of the new plan is to reconcile the RPC plan with the original Crocker plan.

Harry Dean, landscape architect for the Parks and Recreation Department, said the major need is assurance that the ridge line of the mountain is protected.

Mrs. Betty Higgins, of South San Francisco, speaking on behalf of the San Bruno Mountain Committee, informed the commission that an "open letter" bearing 20,000 signatures of persons favoring a regional park in the north county and preservation of the ridge line and open space soon will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors.

"Please do something for us," she stated. "We're at the point of no return. We have nothing." "We're concerned too," replied Commissioner Herbert G. Petersen.

Leash Law Enforced In Daly City

Daly City dog owners are barking up the wrong tree if they think the new leash law passed by the City Council in October has no teeth in it.

In November alone, 51 citations were issued to persons who allowed their four-legged friends to run loose.

Of this number — the highest ever in Daly City — 22 pleaded guilty to the charges in court and either paid fines or received suspended sentences.

In an apparent attempt at ignoring the entire matter, nine failed to appear in court and warrants were issued for their arrest.

Eight dogowners forfeited bail, while two others requested court trials. Of the total, only one case was dismissed by the court.

City attorney Albert Polonsky said the new law has been enforced by additional patrols manned by the County Humane Society. Fines range up to $25 for violations.

San Bruno Church Wins Center OK

San Bruno city planners Monday night took steps to sound the death knell of one neighborhood shopping center — and to create a brand new one on the hill from it.

They granted a permit to Church of the Highlands — now in process of selling its present property to adjoining Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City — to occupy the almost vacant Portola Highlands Shopping Center.

The planners granted the permit to the church to occupy the covered mall shopping center with almost no remodeling at all, for a one year period — subject to the planners approving final plans.

Rev. Donald B. Shelley explained that the initial plan — to remodel the shopping center completely — had to be postponed because negotiations on sale of their current site has been held up. However, he assured the planners that his church has had a firm offer of more than $300,000. Meanwhile, Challenge Developments, shopping center owner, had agreed to permit the church to occupy the site without the down payment of $183,000, providing the church takes steps to raise this amount.

The church has a day school with 100 children in nursery-age classes and 75 in first to fourth-grade classes. Initially, classes will be conducted in the future gym, a 60 by 60-foot area now in an unfinished section of the shopping center.

D.C. Council Rejects Equestrian Center

A request for construction of a multi-million dollar equestrian center near the Cow Palace has been rejected by the Daly City Council.

The council, in an unanimous motion, supported the findings of the Planning Commission that the facility did not conform to the General Plan.

Instead of an equestrian center, the General Plan calls for a library, park and a road in the area.

Several residents of the neighborhood had protested the complex proposed by the Crocker Land Company at earlier commission meetings.

City manager David Rowe advised the Commission that the entire matter be deferred until the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) had had a chance to determine the overall development of San Bruno mountain and which city would be responsible for that development.

Daly City had earlier informed LAFCO it did not want the mountain development inasmuch as the city did not know Crocker's complete plans for development.

The equestrian center would have consisted of two 60-stall stables, training ring, tack room, restaurant and club house on a 40-acre site.

The area is now zoned R-3. The matter has been continued since July 13, 1971.

Bike Safety Plan in S.S.F.

Implementation of a pedestrian and bicycle safety program in Pacifica has been authorized by city officials.

The city will expend $2,500, all of which shall be reimbursed, for the purchase of audio-visual equipment, including a recording system and slide-on-sound, projector and screen. Part of the money also goes toward salaries of those working in the program.

member of the present three-county BART system.

It would also require financing to be done through property taxes — a position the county has consistently opposed.

Forming a joint-venture would lessen the county's say in control of BART, and would concern itself primarily with the Daly City-to-Airport link.

The county would also be free to raise funds for the project any way it saw fit.

Whichever method is agreed upon by the Policy Committee will have to be eventually approved by voters, the board emphasized.

In its resolution, the board requested that sponsors of the project select representatives to the new committee, preferably members of their staffs with certain expertise in this field.

When the committee representatives will be appointed was not decided upon. This would come at a later meeting, it was understood.

The SFAAP board commended the efforts of the San Mateo County Transit Development Project Board "to proceed expeditiously with the feasibility study of a transit extension from the airport to Menlo Park and to seek resolution of the major issues associated with a BART extension into San Mateo County that could not be resolved in the SFAAP."

The board also asked Project Director Larry Dahms to sound out the Federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration regarding obtaining of funds for two-thirds financing of the extension's cost. It was also recommended that BART and the two counties involved in the extension make a preliminary application for such a grant.

Although the 200-page study report calls for an initial BART extension from Daly City to the airport, ending in Millbrae, it has always favored eventual continuation of the system south to Menlo Park.

The total cost for the county-wide 28-mile stretch of rapid transit would be some $700 million.

This segment is now under study by the county in conjunction with the Metropolitan Transportation Commission — a state planning agency.

Construction of the initial airport phase will take about seven years, experts figure. A full-county system would require about nine years to complete.

Howard Looney, chairman of the 47-man Citizens' Committee advising the study, said recently his group wants work to start on the initial phase "as expeditiously as possible."

Looney recommended that the airport project be considered only as a first phase for a countywide system.

He offered to have his committee become a "nucleus of an educational and informational program to acquaint the entire county with results of the airport access study."

Daly City councilman Frank Pacelli said he was for regional concept in rapid transit, but reminded other members of the board the original project was only for an airport extension.

introduction and first reading so fast she was left speechless.

However, during public discussion, she said her group would be delighted to assist in the drafting of a new "more humane" ordinance.

City Attorney John Noonan said he would welcome all help and agreed to meet with members of the organization after the first of the year.

Meanwhile Mrs. Sergeant went into dissertation on how it was her organization's intent to establish a uniform statewide "humane" animal ordinance, modeled after San Francisco's recently adopted ordinance.

The city's proposed amendment regulating the number of animals to be kept on the premises remains intact, for the present.

According to Noonan, anyone wishing to keep more than two allotted with the present ordinance must obtain a special permit.

This permit would be issued by the city clerk after the premises have been inspected by a humane officer and a public health officer to check for sanitary conditions and to avoid any public nuisance.

Mrs. Sergeant took issue with this proposal too. She said it is a known fact that some people can care better for many animals than other people can for one animal. "It's what kind of a pet owner a person is," she said.

According to Mrs. Sergeant the real culprit is the person who breeds for profit. "We should put a limit on puppies," she said. "Over population of animals is one of the most crucial problems there is right now. Don't penalize those who are caring for animals. Go after those who are breeding them."

One voice of dissent came from Westborough resident Bob Albright. He said he favors the ordinance as it is, and invited Mrs. Sergeant and her group to visit his home at exactly 11:30 p.m. "Watch these dogs run and bark and have nice sweet humane thoughts. It's hard to do," said Albright.

Pacifica's
Corporation
Yard Shifts

Pacifica's corporation yard will be relocated to a temporary site on city property on Palmelto Avenue near Landi's Market until a permanent location can be found.

The present motor pool had to be moved to make room for the construction of the city's new wastewater sewage treatment plant.

Council members accepted the recommendation of the new Director of Public Works Dwight French. It was one of three options.

Options included the rental of a building owned by Cordero Chevrolet. The city would have been required to lease for no less than a year. Leasing for an 18-month period would cost $9,000.

The second option was to build a new shop by contract on existing city property. There were two sites proposed. But there would not be enough time to build and to move within a required 30 day deadline. Construction was estimated to cost $12,000.

For the selected option, the contractor has agreed to construct a temporary facility and do some paving for $6,500. When the city vacates the building, it may possibly be sold back to the contractor for $1,500, leaving a net cost of $5,000 the city will pay for a new temporary facility.

City Attorney John Noonan said he would welcome all help and agreed to meet with members of the organization after the first of the year.

Jeff Board Fights
Tri-County Busing

The Jefferson Elementary School Board last night took a firm stand against a tri-county busing proposal.

In a letter to Ples A. Griffin, chief, Bureau of Intergroup Relations, Sacramento, Board Chairman William Schumacher said the district was willing to cooperate on solving mutual problems "relative to intergroup relations."

But Schumacher drew the line between assisting in such a matter and offering to join in busing JESD students between Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo Counties.

Feud Over Time Off
Erupts in S.S.F.

This may be the season where it's better to give than to receive. But that doesn't mean South San Francisco officials are giving an extra half day off for city employees.

The question of an extra half day was put forward by Frank Gillis, Union representative for the municipal employees.

Gillis complained to the councilmen that City Manager Gale Dreisbach issued a memorandum to the effect that employees would have Friday off as a legal holiday, since Saturday is Christmas, in violation of a 1970 agreement with employees.

According to Gillis, a memorandum of understanding called for an additional one-half day holiday being provided before Christmas or New Year's on an informal basis.

Gillis interpreted this to mean that since the Christmas holiday was moved up to Friday from Saturday then employees ought to get off on Thursday noon, as their additional half day holiday before Christmas.

City Attorney John Noonan, backing up Dreisbach, said he doubted that the words in the memo were intended to "give a half-day informal holiday before celebrating the holiday."

The city's personnel rules and regulations say that when a holiday falls on a Saturday, full-time employees, except department heads, will have a day off as approved by the department head.

This is the basis from which Noonan supported Dreisbach's memo. It was unanimously approved by councilmen that the half day offer of the council in the past was to allow employees off the afternoon before Christmas and New Year's when those holidays were on weekdays.

However, it was pointed out that since the employees are getting a full day off, instead of a gratus half day, that would be plenty and should make everyone happy.

Gillis threatened that he would contact union attorneys Tuesday with the intent of obtaining an injunction against the city.

Police identified the bandit as Patrick Roger Torres, 22, of Daly City. He died minutes after officers arrived at Mickey's Liquors on San Jose's east side about midnight.

Police said owner Mickey Manuel of Palo Alto and Floyd Williams of Menlo Park, an employee, were on duty when the bandit walked in, showed a gun and demanded money.

As the man turned to go, with the money stuffed in a paper sack, officers, Williams threw a bottle at him and Manuel pulled out a 38-caliber gun and shot twice.

The bandit fell just outside the door and began firing back into the store. Manuel threw the gun to Williams who crawled along the floor and fired four more times at the bandit, officers said.

Manuel said he recognized the bandit as the same man who had robbed him two weeks ago.

A 59-year-old South San Francisco man was found dead Saturday in the garage of his home by the neighborhood mailman.

The death of Herman John Bielenberg, of 130 Alta Loma Drive is being investigated by the county coroner's office. Authorities theorize Bielenberg may have been overcome by fumes from glue he was using in making a model airplane.

Police said mailman Ronnie Rowlett found the victim at about 10:20 a.m. The South San Francisco Fire Department responded with a resuscitator.

No S. Bruno Show
Of Pipe Concern

San Bruno's planning commissioners did not seem too concerned Monday that their city may — like San Francisco — be denied federal funds, unless the city revises its building code.

Just last month, city councilmen adopted a building code which — like San Francisco's action last week — banned plastic pipe. Unlike San Francisco, however, there appeared to be no move to reverse the decision on plastic pipe.

A major difference with San Francisco is that San Bruno has no redevelopment plan in progress.

A surprise blast at federal housing aid came from Planning Chairman Victor Ogrey, who has until recently worked as a land appraiser for the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency.

"I think it would be a very dark day for San Bruno," he declared, "when we have to take federal money from HUD."

He termed the growth of redevelopment and "tragic misuse of taxpayers funds... They have completely misconstrued the concept of redevelopment."

Commissioner Bill Cox, however, felt that San Bruno might still be denying itself necessary federal funds in the name of plastic pipe. The question of whether a "workable program," which involves adoption of the uniform building code, is needed for federal aid for such items as sewer plant enlargement (a current major program) was not settled.

"It won't apply unless the program involves housing," one person thought.

"Don't connect the sewers to the houses," another commissioner suggested facetiously.

The entire area was recently declared a Redevelopment Agency area and city manager Rowe said the freeze will allow the agency time to complete studies in the area.

All R-3 zoning will now be placed in the R-1 (single family dwelling) category for the next three months in the area bounded by the Daly City city limits to the north; Mission Street on the east; Vista Grande Avenue on the south, and the Southern Pacific Railroad on the west.

Housing dominated the Monday council meeting with a third action concerning proposed redevelopment of the San Mateo County Housing Authority properties commonly called "Midway Village" in the Bayshore District of Daly City.

The council, at the request of City Planner Walker, passed a resolution authorizing the County Housing Authority to apply for a federal loan grant from the Housing and Urban Development department.

This grant would be used solely for engaging in design preparations for redevelopment of the site, it was explained by Walker.

SANTA GIVES GIFTS to youngsters as Raggedy Ann (Lois Sellers of the South San Francisco Pacific Telephone office) looks on. (Post Photo)

For 21 Years He's Been 'Santa'

At a school somewhere on the Peninsula, a big, white-bearded man in a red suit bends down toward two little boys. He hands each a candy cane. "Merry Christmas," he says in a voice perfectly matched to his costume.

The little boys smile widely, but there is a touch of skepticism in their eyes. "Is that beard real?" one ventures.

The big man smiles back and says, "Pull it and find out."

The little boy who asked the question grips the beard and tugs once and then again. Two pairs of eyes widen, and both boys shriek delightedly. "It's real, it's real. He really is Santa Claus."

The man behind the beard is San Bruno resident Carl Dahlen, a toll transmission man at Pacific Telephone's San Bruno central office. But if Santa's authenticity were measured by the depth of his Christmas Spirit, as well as the strength of his beard, Dahlen might depart in a sled pulled by flying reindeer.

For the past 21 years, Dahlen, now 49, has spent his spare hours in mid-December behind that long white beard, dispensing gifts and living attention to thousands of youngsters in schools, scout meetings, union Christmas parties, orphanages, and sometimes in homes where his gifts were the only ones there would be.

This year as in the past Santa has many generous helpers. San Bruno's American Legion Post 409 contributed a gift for each child at San Mateo County's Palos Verdes School, which serves the mentally retarded. Members of the Woodworkers Hobby Club of San Bruno made hundreds of toys and their wives sewed doll clothing for needy children.

Employees at Pacific Telephone's South San Francisco business office wrapped the gifts, contributed candy and Christmas party favors, and acted as helpers at Palos Verdes School.

And Dahlen collected toys himself. Some he bought; some friends and neighbors gave him.

But when all the Christmas gifts have found their children and when it is time to hang up the long white beard until next year, Dahlen is the Santa Claus who doesn't hang his Christmas Spirit up with it.

Over the years he has devoted himself to youth through the Boy Scouts of America. He has served three years each in the offices of scoutmaster, cubmaster, explorer post adviser, and neighborhood commissioner. So valuable have been his contributions that this year Dahlen was awarded the Silver Beaver, one of scouting's highest possible forms of recognition.

Mayors Favor North Jail

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors went on record — unanimously — Friday as favoring a half-million dollar north county jail facility in South San Francisco to serve the cities of the northern part of the Peninsula.

At a meeting in South San Francisco even cities as far south as Portola Valley, Menlo Park and Redwood City supported their neighbors to the north in passing a resolution urging the board of supervisors to begin planning for a detention facility to hold an estimated 50 men and women prisoners.

City official after city official recounted how often their communities were left without police protection as officers were forced to spend as much as two to three hours to transport prisoners to the county jail in Redwood City and book them there. Mayor Albert J. Adreveno of Half Moon Bay pointed out that as his city has only one patrolman on duty at a time, it is left unprotected when the officer takes a prisoner into custody and has to deliver him to Redwood City.

"The place of the police officer is on the street," Mayor Julius Stern of Brisbane asserted. The main advocate for the new jail was Police Chief Sal Rosano of South San Francisco, who said he was speaking for Daly City, San Bruno, Pacifica, and Broadmoor as well as his own city.

Other Bay counties, Rosano reported, have constructed detention facilities around their counties.

Rosano said it was unfortunate that plans for a detention facility were deleted when plans for a north county branch courthouse were being prepared.

The chief pointed out that the President's Crime Commission has recommended that police departments should get out of the job of running jails.

"I couldn't agree more," Rosano said.

Rosano noted that a consultant hired by the county had said that one thing the county doesn't need is additional jails. "This is a very lofty idea, but we must keep the people in custody somewhere."

Rosano said there are 200,000 people residing in the Northern Judicial District, and the matter is of county-wide concern because if the county does not provide facilities, individual cities must build costly holding jails at taxpayers' expense.

Assistant Sheriff Macdonald Craik said that Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore has absolutely no argument against the need for a new north county jail.

But, he said, the cost of maintaining the facility, estimated at $200,000 a year, must be balanced against the need.

He likened the new jail to an iceberg—with the cost to the county above the water line. The service to the people of the area would be the part of the iceberg below the water line, he said.

George Reilly of the county manager's office, was the only speaker opposing the new jail, saying the problem is a problem of north county cities who are asking the county as a whole to pay to solve it.

"It is a matter of economics, and we already have excess facilities to handle prisoners," Reilly claimed.

75 Pacificans Protest Proceedings

At least 75 Pacificans object to proceedings that will purchase slope easements for Fessler Avenue Improvements.

Council members on December 13 adopted a resolution "of public interest and necessity" over the objections of several in the audience, and after the receipt of the petition containing the 75 signatures.

The petition was prepared by Ray Gelder, who said those signing the petition did not want to see Rockaway Beach cut off from Cabrillo Highway.

Another resident, Mrs. Kay Grottrum, suggested ulterior motives that the reason for the proposed improvement was a prelude to building a civic center in that area.

Gelder, president of the Rockaway Beach Progressive Club, said the proposed new alignment will create a safety hazard for those traveling Rockaway Beach Avenue. He said the decision to alter the route was done without the complete agreement of the residents.

Another point—by Gelder, which along with the others appeared on the petition, was that the proposed alignment won't give fast access to the valley in case of disaster.

He said traffic going into Rockaway Beach will have to fight traffic flow going east to west on Fessler Avenue.

Councilman Nick Gust told Gelder all these complaints have been aired many times, and taken into consideration, and unless Gelder had something new to say on the subject, the council ought to approve of the eminent domain proceedings.

S.F. Airport Rush; Troops Fly Home

Christmas season began with a rush Thursday at San Francisco International Airport, a rush of soldiers.

Thousands upon thousands of army men were released yesterday from Fort Ord, to be able to spend the holidays at home.

Busloads of them arrived at the airport every hour, mostly new privates and privates first class, to hustle for airline rides to Omaha and Albuquerque and Chicago.

They crowded the already-bustling terminals, where throngs of civilians were pushing past the ticket counters.

"This is the busiest I've seen this place in months," said one airport employee.

Several airline spokesmen said their companies were having the busiest season ever, with passenger totals climbing steadily for the past two months and apparently headed for new records.

The passenger slump of earlier this year is not forgotten, and although some airlines are predicting "the best year ever," they are doing so cautiously.

Other airlines are looking on the booming Christmas rush with wonder, as an unexpected Yuletide bonus which may yet salvage what has not been a good year financially.

Airport USO leaders asked all volunteer aides to report for duty yesterday, and 14 women were present by mid-morning, when 3,000 soldiers had passed through, asking for coffee, fresh doughnuts, a place to rest, or some help in sewing newly awarded stripes upon army drab sleeves.

Continuing crowds of servicemen are expected to be passing through the airport this weekend and the remainder of the week, as the military services attempt to send anyone home for Christmas who is not absolutely needed on duty.

Airlines report they have put extra planes into service that have been standing idle, and peak days for pre-bookings were said to be yesterday, and next Thursday, only two days before Christmas.

The airport, meanwhile, has cleared away construction equipment from its roadways, and emptied parking lots as much as possible.

Still, there is no surplus of space, and parking is going to be at a premium throughout the holidays.

Airport spokesmen ask that people try to have someone else drive them to the airport, rather than expecting a place to conveniently park their cars while they are gone for several days.

2 Pacificans Will Attend Youth Meet

Approval has been given by Pacifica council for two members of the city's Youth Advisory Commission to attend a two-day convention next March in Ontario in Southern California.

Council authorized funding for two youths, and one city staff member as a chaparrone, not to exceed $400.

The statewide youth convention is scheduled for March 28 and 29 at the Ontario High School.

Money for the trip will be taken from surplus youth employment program funds from last summer, according to City Manager Jim Swayne.

The purpose of the convention is to further the knowledge of the California Youth Commissioners on the functions and operations of city government. Discussion sessions will be held with the commissioners exchanging suggested solutions to mutual problems.

In another youth commission matter, the council approved the intent of a youth proposal that would allow high school students to achieve academic credit for their youth service to city government.

The endorsement of the city council was a prelude to a planned presentation on the subject to the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District.

Student, 19, Killed in Speed Chase

A 19-year-old San Francisco student was apparently instantly killed early on Saturday as he was attempting to outdistance a pursuing Millbrae police car on El Camino Real in South San Francisco. He missed a curb in the 1300 block of the highway, sideswiped an oncoming car, continued on out of control and sheared off a power pole.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City around 2:30 a.m. was Thomas Hines, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hines of San Francisco.

A passenger in the car, John McKenzie, also 19, of 663 Spruce Street, San Francisco, was taken to Mary's Help with multiple fractures, according to officers.

Coroner's Investigator Robert Cawley reported the two youths were at a holiday party, and McKenzie became ill and asked Hines to drive him home.

Millbrae Officer Ed Semke said he noticed the boys' car heading north on El Camino Real near Hillcrest Boulevard at a high rate of speed.

When Semke turned on his red light, authorities said Hines speeded up, often traveling in excess of 100 miles per hour and running red signal lights.

South of Hickey Boulevard, Hines sideswiped a Volkswagen driven by S.S.S. Pillow, a resident of a trailer court in the 1700 block of El Camino Real in South San Francisco, continued out of control and smashed into the pole.

Catholic Schools in S.S.F. Might Not Be Consolidated

Three Catholic grammar schools in South San Francisco which have been considering some form of consolidation for the future may not have to go to such lengths after all.

The chairman of a study committee which has been delving into the situation at the schools—All Souls, Mater Dolorosa and St. Veronica's—said today that, as things now stand, a consolidation of all three probably won't be necessary.

Mrs. Richard Harnett said the schools, the only Catholic grammar schools in that North County city, have recently picked up some attendance since September and the total student body at the three now totals about 757. Maximum enrollment for the schools is about 870, she said.

"The three schools are in better shape this year," she noted. She said it appears that Catholics in the area are beginning to rally around the schools.

Mrs. Harnett's committee is studying several alternatives to the present program of three separate facilities.

There is a chance, she said, that the schools will use common resources next year. There is also a slim possibility that two of the schools might combine rather than have all three consolidate—but even that is far from certain.

The alternative which seems to be most viable at this time, she said, is to keep all three schools open and functioning.

Mrs. Harnett explained that parents' groups in the city have begun to emphasize the value of keeping the schools open. A recruitment brochure lauding the schools is scheduled to be released in the near future as well, she noted.

Naturally, one of the major thrusts of the brochure will be that the schools are to be kept open, she said.

The troubles at the South San Francisco parochial schools are nothing unique. Two Catholic grammar schools, St. Matthias in Redwood City and St. Bartholomew's in San Mateo, have recently closed because of financial difficulties. The same kinds of problems face such schools all over the country.

One of the important issues is that fewer nuns are teaching today and the schools are being forced to hire and pay lay teachers in their stead.

At All Souls, for example, there are no nuns on the teaching staff. All teachers there are lay people.

The other two schools, St. Veronica's and Mater Dolorosa, both have five nuns on their teaching faculties. The other teachers are lay people.

All three schools are composed of grades one through eight.

Mrs. Harnett said there is a special study committee working on the special conditions at All Souls, the school which seems to be in the most serious financial shape of the three.

She said the parents' groups are also looking into ways that their schools might be able to acquire more state financial aid.

Pacifica Property Dispute

A mistake by an engineering company that placed five Pacifica town houses too close to property lines will likely be settled with a contribution to the city's Frontierland Park.

The firm of Frahm, Eder and Associates, acting as consultants for Challenge Homes, were charged by the city with establishing a setback at six feet instead of a predetermined ten feet. The ten feet was a drop from the city's requirement of fifteen feet.

At the December 13 council meeting, City Attorney John Sherman obtained permission from the council to attempt to settle the matter amicably.

He suggested, as a compromise to initial responses of having the townhouses torn down and moved back another four feet, the firm make a donation to the city's Frontierland Park.

Fireman Sees Blaze, Does Job

South San Francisco Fire Capt. Art Maguire was taking a leisurely stroll Wednesday night past 331 Neuman Drive when he spotted a fire and single-handedly put it out.

According to reports, Maguire saw a fire through a front room window. "He went like all good citizens to a fire box," said one fireman. Maguire told a youth to stay at the box and guide the oncoming firemen to the scene.

Authorities said Maguire then took a garden hose and attacked the blaze through a broken window. He had it pretty well under control when the units arrived.

Firemen said the fire started when a flood lamp shining on a Christmas tree, was too close to the floor, and apparently caught the rug and drapes.

Occupants of the house were at a neighbor's, officials said. The fire, estimated at under $1,000, was confined to a living room rug, drapes and a wall.

South San Francisco firemen spent three hours early this morning fighting a blaze in a South San Francisco Scavenger Company large solid waste container.

Firemen said they suspected some type of inflammable liquid, through friction, caused the fire. Foam and dry chemicals were used to fight the blaze.

Authorities said damage, estimated at about $3,000, was caused to a hydraulic press, wiring and motor.

The container which was burning holds about a dozen garbage truck loads of refuse, officials said. The container was about half full.

Police Seek 2 Bandits

Two men who held up a San Bruno drug store last week are believed by police to be the second half of a four-man robbery ring being sought by Bay Area police.

Last week police arrested Vincent Allen Smith, 30, in his Daly City home, and James Edward Dudley, 29, in San Francisco.

At that time police identified those two and John Stanley Szymiewicz, 27, an escapee from a San Quentin work furlough program, and Dean Ernest Lakey, 34, recently paroled from San Quentin, as members of a ring believed to be responsible for at least 20 Bay Area drug store robberies.

Police information indicated that all are addicted to narcotics.

Wednesday's robbery in San Bruno was against the Mills Park Pharmacy, 701 Camino Plaza. It happened at 7:30 when two men came into the store and waited for a lone female customer to leave.

Police said one man approached Clerk Richard T. Kramer, 20, while the other walked behind a counter and revealed a handgun, described as similar to a .45-caliber.

According to police, the telephone rang at about this time and the man with the gun told owner Simon Paper, 51, not to answer it. "I want all your class A drugs and your money," the man reportedly said.

Kramer was told to lie down behind the prescription counter, and he was tied up with tape, police said.

Paper, meanwhile, was ordered to open a safe, where the bandits took money and more narcotics. Then Paper was told to lie down beside Kramer, and was tied in the same fashion.

Police said that during this time, the robbers were continually asking Kramer for specific name drugs, and where they were kept.

The pair also took $75 in cash from Paper's billfold and $35 from the billfold of Kramer. They then replaced the billfolds in the victim's pockets.

Police said the bandits took the door keys and walked out of the store, closing the door behind them.

Pacifica OK's Data Plans

Pacifica officials have agreed to take part in a county-city program for electronic data processing.

The City Manager's Association, in cooperation with the county, has already filed a notice of intent to apply for $12,500 grant money for such a project.

An equal amount, in cash or in-kind services, is to be supplied by cities and the county. The proposal is to establish an electronic data processing consortium within the county.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE MCALLISTER

There are many active clubs at Jeff and the Art Club is one of the most active.

Every year the club has its annual Christmas sale just before Christmas vacation.

The students sell merchandise which they have made. This year the Art Club booth was built in the shape of Santa's Hat, and it attracted many students.

The Art Club officers are: president, Steve Jordan; vice president, Eva Kiss; secretary, Steve Matthews; treasurer, Jackie Hastings; and publicity, Mike Dion.

The club's members have their work displayed in the main office.

THE JEFF A CAPPELLA CHOIR has been busy spreading its message of joy, singing at Serramonte, Tanforan and Westlake Shopping Center, Villa Sanitarium and Colma Intermediate School.

Monterey, Carmel and San Simeon were included on the honeymoon itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lee Scott who exchanged vows at St. Bruno's Catholic Church.

The newlyweds, who are now living in Pleasanton, received felicitations after the service at the Rodeway Inn.

The new Mrs. Scott is the former Barbara Ann Dal Pogetto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dal Pogetto of San Bruno. When she walked to the altar with her father she was dressed in a white A-line dress fashioned along Princess lines. Matron of honor for her sister was Dolores Blake who wore a Navy blue midi length A-line suit with long puff sleeves. A miniature version of her dress was worn by Laura Kagawa, the flower girl.

John B. Sullivan stood with Ron as best man and Donald and Norman Scott, his brothers, seated guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Chris Maestas of Albuquerque, the bride's aunt and uncle.

Barbara is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority who also serves as a volunteer at Mary's Help Hospital. Patricia Levi is her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Scott of San Francisco are the bridegroom's parents.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Will Kirkland of the "Institute for the Study of Non-Violence" in Palo Alto spoke to a group of 30 students last week at a meeting of the Terra Nova International Relations Club.

Kirkland, who was raised in a military, Catholic family in Virginia, graduated from the Annapolis Naval Academy in 1965, and was commissioned an Ensign. From 1966-1968, he served on the USS Mars, a non-combatant refrigeration ship that took food to the troops in Vietnam.

Within those two years in the Pacific, he was never directly exposed to live combat or the "enemy," yet he was a daily witness to what he called the social injury that resulted from the war, and which he said was manifested in the weak morals illustrated by the "married men who went whoring as soon as they got their leave, the military women who turned to alcohol," and, the "officers who ate on linen table cloths, served by Filipino servants after having pushed buttons and sent bombs that killed and maimed."

HE BECAME disillusioned with his Annapolis "ideals," and began to look upon the resulting social injury as demoralizing as the war itself, he said.

At the end of two years, Kirkland said, he was given a small commanding position, but he told the commanding officer that he would refuse to give orders.

When he didn't accept what was regarded as a military honor (bringing the boat to harbor), he was sent to a hospital for a week of psychiatric observation.

At the end of the week, he was given an honorable discharge. He returned to the US and joined a theatrical group for two years, and is currently involved in non-violence work.

Kirkland said he believes that the way to rooted social change is through "establishing new relationships among ourselves," and that nothing will be solved by "overthrowing the government or substituting Jesus for 'Nixon'."

The problem with the present society, he commented, is that it has become too institutionalized.

"Health has been confused with hospitals, and education has been confused with schools," he said. "Most of an individual's learning is done outside of school."

HE EXPRESSED the need to de-institutionalize in order to create people, and later, speaking about the various peace groups and non-violence organizations, said "organizations aren't ends in themselves."

The Institute for the Study of Non-Violence is a freely structured organization and conducts three-hour lecture groups and informational classes for the public. They also provide guest speakers, such as Kirkland, when requested.

"Anytime you get a group of ten or so interested people, we'll send someone to you."

Kirkland had spoken the previous night at the St. Peter Catholic Church in Linda Mar. The informal TN meeting lasted for about an hour, with Kirkland doing most of the talking, and only an occasional comment or response from the students.

After an unusually long pause, Kirkland smiled and talking, and only an occasional "trained."

At the end of his talk, he asked a vocal student to tell him what the situation on draft counseling and other services was in Pacifica, if it wouldn't take too long to discuss.

"Oh, that would take three minutes," she replied.

AN OLD PROVERB suggests that the only necessities for a good life are something to do, something to love and something to hope for. During this holiday season I hope each of you is blessed with the sage's three necessities and, in addition, health, happiness and prosperity.

WHILE MOST of us are still struggling to put together attractive holiday decorations and getting those last minute presents wrapped and under the tree there are those well organized souls who are already working on our next festive occasion, New Year's Eve.

Mrs. Donald Gianfermo, publicity chairman for the Westlake Catholic Women, reminds that December 31 is fast approaching and so it is a good idea to contact your friends and organize your table for the Garden Ball, the gala New Year's Eve party being sponsored by the Our Lady of Mercy parish.

THE HOLY ANGELS Women's Guild is urging its seamstresses to register to model their latest spring creations at the annual Sew and Show Dessert party on February 5.

Mrs. Stella Smith, chairman of the fashion event, has requested parish women interested in modeling, or having their children model attire made for them, to return registration forms to her before January 5.

Assisting Mrs. Smith with planning and preparation is Mrs. Maria Basicalia. Mrs. Rose Gumina is the refreshment chairman.

MEMBERS OF the Alpha Phi Omega alumni sorority recently gathered in the Westlake apartment of Yvonne Burk for dinner party and gift exchange.

This year's Christmas gathering was the first at which the husbands were present and reports indicate that the evening was such a success that having the men join in the celebration will become traditional.

Mrs. Barbara Wolowic remarked that one of the surprising and happy aspects of the evening was the revelation of 1971's secret sisters.

KEVIN CLARK, Todd and Craig Swarthout, Christine Flores, Paul Black, Laurel Hamlin, Michelle Wong and David Anderson were among the Daly City pre-schoolers who presented the Christmas program at the Lakeside Presbyterian Church Nursery School on Thursday morning.

The youthful participants took part in a musical program for the parents, relatives and friends before adjourning to their classrooms for a Christmas party with candy canes and cookies.

More than 200 people were on hand to enjoy the presentation.

Broadmoor Cubs Carol

Cub Scout Pack 259 held their November meeting at the Broadmoor Community Center.

Cubmaster Dale Wright welcomed Douglas Wright and his parents. Doug received his bobcat pin. Den 2 provided the entertainment.

Following the colonial theme the scouts participated in a skit recognizing many famous Americans.

Awards were presented to the following: Gino Neys, denner; David Gamber, assistant denner; Joe Vilas, denner and one silver on wolf; Steven Funk, assistant denner; Brett Arnold, denner; Rory Arnot, assistant denner; Grad Kurrell, bear badge; Mike O'Brien, bear badge; and gold arrow; Mitchell Wu, bear badge and gold arrow; Den

2 and 3 enjoyed their outings to the PAL circus at the Cow Palace. Den 5 went swimming at Larsen Pool.

Sunday night, December 19, Cub Scouts from 259 were Christmas caroling throughout Broadmoor Village.

THE CONQUISTADORS Drum and Bugle Corps of the Northern Peninsula held its first annual awards dinner and uniform ball at the San Bruno American Legion Hall. Those receiving the awards from Corps Director Gene Sipple and his staff were (left to right): Jerry Sena, most improved marcher; Kelly Munn, outstanding color guard member; Sam Corsello, best drummer; Sipple; Rick Zuniga, best bugle player; Ron Muekawa, corpsman of the year; and Eugene Harnett, rookie of the year. The corps is now in its winter recruiting and training period in preparation for the 1972 season.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD RAMOS of Daly City were honored recently on their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple's children — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Howe Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David Boitano and Eddie Ramos Jr. planned the event, held at Z's in San Francisco. The Ramos were wed on Nov. 10, 1946.

Couple Is Honored On 25th Wedding Date

A twenty-fifth wedding anniversary reception honored James and Mary LePine.

The reception was given by their children, Nancy, Jim, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gabrielle LePine.

In attendance at the reception were Mrs. LePine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Richey, of Merced.

Also present were members of the wedding party including Mr. and Mrs. Richard East of Sacramento, and Mr. and Mrs. John LePine, of Millbrae.

Also in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Turl Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wirth, Mr. and Mrs. James Wylie, Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Dye, Mr. and Mrs. Hap O'Neil of Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cash;

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Senge, Mr. and Mrs. John LePine, Miss Willa Stage, Mr. Jim Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lawton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard East, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Richey, Mr. and Mrs. James T. LePine and Nancy LePine.

Friends of DC Library Attend SF Conference

The Friends of the Library recently met in conjunction with the 73rd Annual Conference of the California Library at the San Francisco Hilton Motel.

Among the Daly City residents at the conference were Mrs. Frank Kelechava, chairman of the library commissioners; Mrs. U. R. Kendree, library commissioner; Samuel Chandler, director of the Daly City libraries and an officer of the California Library Association; Edward Cavallini, special services librarian; Mrs. Vinton Stratton, president of the Daly City Friends of the Library; Mrs. John Connolly, vice-president of the Daly City Friends; and Richard Silver, library commissioner and state treasurer of the Friends of the Library.

At the luncheon last Thursday, the speaker was Willie L. Brown, Jr., chairman of the State of California Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Are you just about ready for Christmas morning? Gifts bought, wrapped and waiting?

Christmas baking finished? If so, congratulations!

The baking, I have pretty much in hand, but it's about the gifts and wrapping: Why is it that a gift that seemed so perfect when you bought it last week, doesn't look so good when it's time to wrap it?

Then it's hurry, rush back to the store to find something more suitable than a cutglass football for Aunt Martha and Uncle Charlie.

Ah, well, I am confident that we will all be ready and waiting eagerly for Santa to arrive on Christmas Day.

For Christmas dinner here is a most appropriate dessert: A rich cake with fruit, nuts, spices and honey giving it charm. Serve in squares topped with whipped cream and crowned with a maraschino cherry.

The remarkable thing about this recipe is that the ingredients are listed by verses from the Old Testament. So you will be baking with the Bible.

SCRIPTURE CAKE

- 1/2 cup Judges 5:25
- 1 cup Jeremiah 6:20
- 3 Tablespoons I Samuel 14:25
- 3 Isaiah 10:14
- 3 Tablespoons I Samuel 14:25
- 1/2 teaspoon Leviticus 2:13
- 2 cups I Kings 4:22
- 3 teaspoons Amos 4:5

1 TEASPOON EXODUS 30:23

- 1 teaspoon II Chronicles 9:9
- 1/2 cup Judges 4:19
- 1 cup Nahum 3:12
- 1 cup Numbers 17:8
- 1 cup I Samuel 30:12

Cream the half cup Judges 5:25 and one cup Jeremiah 6:20. Separate Isaiah 10:14 and beat the three yolks. Add to creamed mixture. Beat in three tablespoons I Samuel 14:25.

Sift together two cups I Kings 4:22 with one-half teaspoon Leviticus 2:13, two teaspoons Amos 4:5, one teaspoon Exodus 30:23 and one teaspoon II Chronicles 9:9. Add to creamed mixture alternately with one-half cup Judges 4:19. Stir in one cup chopped Nahum 3:12, one cup of sliced Numbers 17:8 and one cup I Samuel 30:12. Fold in the beaten whites of Isaiah 10:14.

Turn into 9x13-inch pan that has been greased and dusted with I Kings 4:22. Bake in 325 degree oven about 45 minutes. Test with toothpick for doneness.

IN CASE YOU DON'T have time to go through your Bible to look up the verses, here they are.

Judges 5:25 — "He asked for water and she gave him milk, she brought him CURDS in a lordly bowl." (Butter)

Jeremiah 6:20 — "To what purpose cometh there to me frankincense from Sheba, or SWEET CANE from a distant land?" (Sugar)

Isaiah 10:14 — "And my hand hath found as a nest the riches of the peoples; and as one gathereth EGGS that for forsaken, have I gathered all the earth."

I Samuel 14:25 — "And all the people came into the forest; and there was HONEY on the ground."

Leviticus 2:13 — "You shall season all your cereal offerings with salt; you shall not let the salt of the covenant with your God be lacking from your cereal offering; with all your offerings you shall offer SALT."

I Kings 4:22 — "Solomon's provision for one day was thirty cors of fine FLOUR and sixty cors of meal."

Amos 4:5 — "Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of that which is LEAVENED, and proclaim free will offerings, publishing them." (Baking Powder)

II Chronicles 9:9 — "And she gave the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold and SPICES in great abundance." (Nutmeg)

Exodus 30:23 — "Take thou also, unto these the chief spices: of flowering myrrh 500 SHEKELS, and of sweet CINNAMON half so much."

Judges 4:19 — "And he said to her, 'Pray, give me a little water to drink for I am thirsty.' So she opened a skin of MILK and gave him to drink."

Nahum 3:12 — "All your fortresses are like fig trees with first ripe FIGS."

Numbers 17:8 — "And on the morrow Moses went into the tent of the testimony; and behold, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi had sprouted and put forth buds, and produced blossoms, and it bore ripe ALMONDS."

I Samuel 30:12 — "And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs and two clusters of RAISINS."

BEST WISHES to all for a joyous and happy Christmas.

Events for New Year's Eve Slated

SERVING JAMES McCann (photo, right) are Mrs. Patrick Gibney and Mrs. Michael Cooney, who have been making decorations for the Rose Garden Ball — the New Year's Eve party at Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall — December 31. Favors, refreshments, a sit down dinner of roast beef, and dancing to the music of Pete Maiorana and his group are planned. The evening will begin at 8 with dinner at 9 and dancing at 10. McCann and Mrs. Robert Rickert (not pictured) are chairmen.

THE LATIN CLUB of Holy Angels Catholic Church, Colma, is sponsoring a New Year's Eve party in the Parish Hall. The party will begin at 8:30 and end at 2 a.m. with a buffet supper served at 10:30. The Los Beamers will play for dancing. Reservations may be made by contacting Gordon Mann (992-2910) or Mel Tafaya (756-5062) by December 28. Tickets also will be sold after Mass on December 26. $7.50. The proceeds from the party will be used for Holy Angeles School. The funds helped to refurbish the School library last year.

MR. AND MRS. HALE PORTER of South San Francisco admire the brass sculpture tree by William J. Campan at the AAUW American Association of University Women's Wine tasting and art show, from which proceeds will benefit the AAUW's fellowship program. The Millbrae Recreation Center was the setting for the festivities.

Villa Chartier For Xmas Gift Certificate

The Villa Chartier has an ideal Christmas gift for the confirmed diner-out. Their handsome Gift Certificate can be purchased in any amount you wish. It's an imaginative and appetizing gift that can be used at any time. For information on the details, call Marion Bedard at the restaurant. For a memorable evening of cocktails, dinner and entertainment, the Villa Chartier is open seven days serving luncheon and dinner, featuring a menu of traditional entree favorites... The Le Bistro Rouge, a sophisticated French restaurant on Twenty-fifth Avenue, is now serving luncheons as well as dinners. Owner-host Dimitris features an extensive menu, with such house specialties as Poulet de Grain en Casserole (Cornish hen in Burgundy wine sauce) and Scallops Maison (scallops saute, tomatoes concassees, garlic). As French as Paris' sidewalk cafes, the Le Bistro Rouge dining room, which is dimly lighted by ruby red lamps on each table, is tastefully decorated with colorful wallpaper and rich panelling.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT LOOK — Ross MacKay, a dynamic young singer-guitarist, is turning-on crowds at the beautiful Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto during his Tuesday through Thursday stints, and just in time for the festive New Year's Eve party. Ross does many of the tunes of Sinatra and the Carpenters, old standards, plus a sprinkling of the Top 40. He is currently planning a record album which will include many of his own compositions. The Shirt Tail sounds like a swinging place to be on New Year's Eve.

Nick Gust's Complex Of Beach Restaurants

When he isn't making decisions and maneuvering politically, Nick Gust is tending to his complex of restaurants, located in Rockaway Beach on a picturesque stretch of beach. Serving family-style dinners seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m., Nick's the oldest of these restaurants, is a favorite gathering place for large Sunday morning breakfast parties. There's dancing on Friday and Saturday nights to the Del Carlo Combo, with hostess-vocalist Mary Ann Hay often sitting in on dance sets. And, incidentally, a happy belated birthday to Mary Ann, who is considered the "lady ambassador of good will" among those who have been enriched by just being exposed to her loving attitude. Joe Payer provides organ music on the other evenings... Just across the street is The Moonraker, Nick's nautical restaurant featuring such gourmet delicacies as Chicken Cacciatore Milanese and Roast Rack of Lamb Kampapa... Downstairs in the same building is the popular Papagayo Room, offering an equally pleasant view of the Pacific from every table. Authentic Mexican dishes are served while a strolling guitarist serenades with romantic and happy songs.

Finocchio's Laverne Cummings

Chanteuse Laverne Cummings, one of Finocchio's famous female impersonators who looks for all the world like a glamour girl from a Hollywood movie set, is one of the all-time stunners in the film revue. Laverne has been sought for many Hollywood films and TV shows in the past... Most customers associate Enrico Romano, owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant (Rockaway Beach, Pacifica), with the art of pizza making. What many customers are unaware of is that Enrico is also a master chef with Italian dishes. He spends countless hours each week in his kitchen, preparing special sauces for these dishes... A great way to enjoy the Holidays is to feast on complete gourmet dinners at the House of Troy in San Carlos. The dining area is small, but intimate; specialties of the house are steaks, lobster, and Prime Ribs on weekends only. Cocktail lounge and plenty of parking behind the restaurant... Gift certificates from Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina District, are a great last-minute gift idea for relatives, friends and business associates on your Christmas list. They're available in any amount.

Ben. Franklin Is Landmark

Erwin Best's Benjamin Franklin Hotel is an established San Mateo landmark. Needless to say, business in the hotel, the Greenwillow dining room and the adjacent Club Seville couldn't be more lucrative. During the luncheon hours, you will find many of the local merchants gathered in the dining room to relax and compare notes. It's also a friendly center for shoppers and the social clique... The Down Under, a San Francisco restaurant with an Australian atmosphere, is also open for lunch on a daily basis. The self-service salad bar is a popular spot during the mid-day. A variety of daily luncheon specials are tabbed at $2.25. For $1.50, you can lunch on salad only, with bread and wine... Unless the 49ers make the playoffs, this Sunday morning will be the last time Lou Ercoli will be treating fans to coffee and rolls. Lou, an ardent 49er rooster and co-owner of the Leaning Tower restaurant, has been sending bus loads of patrons to all the home games at Candlestick Park. When he arrives to open the restaurant around 10:30 a.m. on Sundays he usually finds a flock of fans already waiting. A few seats are still available for this Sunday's bus.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS 1971

During the past year it was gratifying to see the majority of our brave boys coming home from Vietnam. The casualties of our fighting men have dropped to a very minimum.

We can all thus give thanks to our great President who has not left any stone unturned to keep his promise to end this horrible war which he inherited. The least we can do is to give him the backing he needs to finish his great task of ending the war and bringing PEACE which all mankind seeks; but to have and enjoy with dignity, the FREEDOMS that go with PEACE, we must work wholeheartedly for it.

Let us all pray to ALMIGHTY GOD that each of us will strive to make this a better world, a world in which all will live PEACEFULLY side by side. It is fitting that our efforts toward PEACE should be reaffirmed at CHRISTMAS as a token of FAITH in the PRINCE OF PEACE.

"Oh, come, all you faithful, joyful and triumphant."
MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Andy Ardito, manager of Atherton's Lord Fletcher Inn, will give his crew a welcome Holiday rest, as the Inn will not be open on Christmas Day and the following Saturday. However, the restaurant will be serving dinner on New Year's Eve, and Ardito says reservations are already rolling in. If you're a fancier of authentic English grog and cuisine, this is the place to be on New Year's... Treasure is to be found at the Exposition Fish Grotto at Fisherman's Wharf. And we're speaking of chef Art Davis' Treasure Island Plate, a delectable combination of shell fish and Eastern oysters. This is only one of many outstanding dishes created by this award-winning chef.

Expressions
Of Ideals

"Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas tonight
Christmas in the lands of fir-tree and pine
Christmas in the lands of palm-tree and vine
Christmas where snow peaks and solemn and white
Christmas where corn-fields lie sunny and bright
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas tonight."
Phillip Brooks

A GLANCE through history shows that in the past Americans have used Christmas as a time to restate their ideals of liberty and justice.

On Christmas Eve, George Washington wrote, "When is the time for brave men to exert themselves in the cause of liberty and their country if it is not now? Should any difficulties that they have to encounter at this important crisis deter them God knows there is not such a difficulty . . . we must bear up, and make the best of mankind as they are, since we cannot have them as we wish."

Washington directed his words to the less than 3000 men in his army, most of them bedraggled and hungry, and many without shoes or shirts.

The supplies they needed had been left behind, because there were no wagons to carry them. During the days of late November the men were forced to abandon their tents and their blankets so they could carry the ammunition that should have come in the wagons. As a result they were forced to sleep on the bare ground with the snow falling in their faces.

Fever, pneumonia and dysentery were rampant. Even dreaded typhus appeared. Indeed, the plight of the soldiers caused General Greene to write, "Conditions are beyond description and shocking to humanity."

Yet Washington called for bravery and perseverance in the cause of justice!

ON CHRISTMAS EVE, 1776, he cried, "Attack!" As the darkness fell upon a day described as "fearfully cold and raw with a snow storm setting in," he led his hungry men across the Delaware to achieve America's first victory in the War for Independence.

After Washington's example, many American leaders have repeated his words to work for progress with Americans as they are rather than as someone would have them.

Recalling that he had been an orphan boy who never had been given a toy, President Andrew Jackson used Christmas to inspire orphaned children to rise above their unfortunate circumstances. Each Christmas he opened the White House to them for a day of pleasure and elegance.

President James Buchanan used Christmas to direct his countrymen's attention to the conditions of the American Indian.

President Lincoln used the holidays to dedicate hospitals and schools. And Presidents Grant, Arthur, Harrison, Wilson, as well as others used the Christmas season to honor persons who had served notably in promotion of the public welfare.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE 1941, just 18 days after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, President Franklin D. Roosevelt called upon Americans to battle against "enemies who preach the principles of hate and practice them."

"We set our faith in human love and in God's care for us and all men everywhere," he said.

Immediately afterward, the President's guest, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, said to the American people, "Let the children have their night of fun and laughter. By our sacrifice and during these same children shall not be robbed of their inheritance or denied the right to live in a free and decent world."

The precedent set by these leaders is worthy of becoming the practice of many Americans. As Anne Hawkes Hutton writes in "An Annual of Christmas Literature and Art," "Today every man as well as every nation, makes a crossing — as Washington crossed the Delaware — philosophical or actual."

Reflecting On Our Condition

At a recent meeting sponsored by the Academies of Science of the United States and Russia, a group of highly intelligent men considered our chance of communicating with outer space. Their discussions included speculation as to the existence of other technologically advanced civilizations that would have the means of interstellar communications.

Some doubted that such communications are possible, but for a reason that gives shudders. It was their opinion that with the time required for transmission, it is unlikely that any sufficiently advanced society could last long enough to be a source of continuing messages. They reasoned that any society as sophisticated as ours would tend to destroy itself in a very short time in its own pollution or through the technology of atoms.

Their apparent perspective gives weight to their judgment. For, on the face of things, they weren't really looking at earth and man, but were cloaked in the seeming objectivity of studying the possibilities of other worlds and other societies. However, their opinions concerning life in the universe come from the only sample available — man and earth. Implicit in their gloomy conclusions, therefore, is a message concerning us: it is later than we think.

Reflecting upon the sorry condition of things on our planet, there is much to sustain the judgment of these men. In every quarter and every quadrant, we find war or the prospect of war ravaging or threatening. The mounting refuse of humankind threatens to engulf us, and we have discovered one means of total self destruction and busily search for more.

Nonetheless, their reasoning seems flawed. The emphasis of these interstellar pessimists was upon civilizations and their likely course. Their estimates seem to ignore the better side, and the possibility that in a universe of thousands of civilizations one or more would endure. It seems they have failed to study their own sample. They see only greed, not charity, hate, not love, and failure, not hope. Their judgment stands damned by their own scientific method.

They forget that most of the world's people live in a condition of relative peace and find joy in daily living. They ignore peaceful application of chemistry and physics, and the growing bounties of biological science.

They do not hear the Messiah, or any of the operas, symphonies, or musical works that so inspire men. They do not respond to the passion of Michelangelo, or sense the hope that springs from thousands of canvases.

Our Viewpoint

The Yule Message

It is in the churches throughout the world that the meaning of Christmas receives its clearest and most moving expression. In churches everywhere the glad tidings of the birth of Christ will be set forth in sermon and songs.

The events of Christmas are a precious possession of Western civilization, which have a special poignance in an age when religion is being challenged in half the globe. The music of Christmas inspires the spirit and touches the heart. It ranges from magnificent chorales of Bach through Handel's melodious oratorios to the simplest of carols.

Most of the Christmas carols are of English and German origin, although some came from the Latin countries. An American, Phillips Brooks, wrote the words of one of the most beloved carols, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

The greatest composers and poets found inspiration in the Christmas message for works, elaborate or simple, that have lasted through the centuries. Music is an essential part of the Christmas festival, expressing the sentiments of joy, salvation and peace which lie at the heart of the Christmas evangel.

As the Christmas bells ring, as special services are held on Christmas Eve and on Christmas Day, remembrances and prayers will be offered for those in distant places who are on guard for freedom. The world will remain too much with us on Christmas until the message of the first Christmas, "Peace on earth" penetrates the hearts of all mankind.

'The Pigeon Drop'
Season Here, Too

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

Have you recently met a stranger who offered you money and requested that you show "good faith" by putting up a similar amount of money?

Has a person instructed you to refuse a cashier's check and request money instead?

Has a man, who identified himself as a security officer in your bank, asked you to cooperate in trapping a light-fingered teller?

If the answer is "yes" to any one of the above questions, notify law enforcement authorities at once.

The holiday season brings with it an upsurge in the heartless crime of swindling the elderly and "good faith" swindlers are successfully working the old "pigeon drop" game.

A five-man ring allegedly bilked elderly persons of an estimated $2 million dollars. Many unreported victims are so confused to understand what happened to them and the diabolical plots to extort money from elderly people goes on and on.

Julia K., an 80 year old widow, was pushing her shopping cart down the street when a young woman holding out a wallet bulging with money approached her. A second woman quietly joined them and together they examined the contents of the wallet. It was decided that it must be gangster money and so therefore they were entitled to divide the money.

First, to play safe, they would ask the advice of the lawyer one of the young women worked for. Presumably she went back to her office, returning quickly with the news that "her boss" had said it was perfectly legal and right to split the windfall.

However, before there would be a split of the money, the widow was told that she must put up money "to show her good faith." The elderly woman went into her bank and withdrew her life savings and apparently one of the young women did also.

The money was placed in an envelope and the widow was given it to hold until they would all meet in the lawyer's office 15 minutes later to split the money. When Julia arrived at the given address she found it to be nonexistent. She found play money in the envelope — the envelope had been switched.

Frank LaPierre

Now, They're
All Gone—

IT WAS GETTING LATE and everyone had left the New York Sun editorial offices when the publisher handed Associate Editor Frank Church a "Letter to the Editor" to answer before he went home. Church read and reread the letter from eight year old Virginia Douglas:

"Dear Editor, I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus, Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun (newspaper), it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

AS FAR AS CHURCH was concerned, he later told his colleagues, he was all for chucking the letter into a wastebasket and going down to the local pub for a snort on that blustery night almost 70 years ago. But orders were orders and he sat down at his desk. This is what he wrote — as true today as it was those many years ago:

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little."

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished."

OTHERS HAVE SAID nice things about Christmas, but Church in his answer to Virginia seemed to say it all. The Letter became as much a part of Christmas as the tree and the volunteers standing on windswept street corners with their bells and kettles, trying to collect money for the poor.

THERE ARE NO MORE "Frank Church's" around today. They passed on with such legendary newspapers as The Sun. And this year there is no Virginia. She died a few months ago in the rolling pin covered hills of upper New York state.

HOWEVER, WE WOULD like to pass on Frank Church's words once again to all the "Virginias" in this world. Yes, there is indeed a Santa Claus! And he lives today in the hearts of many.

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Saw a sign at the Geary Street offices of the Salvation Army which read: "Our God is alive, sorry about yours." Somehow it seems appropriate at this time of the year. It won't be too long before people will be asking "What's a God?" That is, if the good folks down at the American Civil Liberties Union have their way. Once they succeed in taking Christ out of Christmas they'll turn to God.

JUST GOT THE NEWS — They already have started a program to abolish "God" from various pledges, such as the Pledge of Allegiance. The part that says, "One nation under God . . ." The God part should be taken out, some folks believe. How about one "Nation under the Moon." I mean, after all, we can see the moon. We know it's there. No sense in hanging onto a little faith when realism will take its place. "One nation under the Moon . . ." Nuts.

A CHRISTMAS POEM by Little Al Belotz (recited at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Daly City the other noon: "Roses are reddish, violets are bluish, if it wasn't for Jesus you'd all be Jewish." We thought so, too.

BUMPER STRIP ON the back of a VW — "Save the Environment." Hanging on the back of the car: a cut Christmas tree. Some folks are pure hypocrites. What do I use A phony tree, of course!

CHRISTMAS LUNCH ON by the D.C. Chamber last week was that organization's finest hour. A skit staged by the businessmen, starring Pete Markovich, Jim Sargen, Al Belotz and pretty Miss Daly City, Diane Wagner, was emceed by Frank (Toto) Spadarella. A fine skit it was!

Markovich, looking more like the Spirit of St. Louis after it completed its cross-Atlantic flight, played the Spirit of Christmas — complete with stogie. Belotz was typecast as "Scrooge," while Sargen did a convincing job as Tiny Tim. Miss D.C. played Mary Christmas (snort, wheeze, gasp) in Hot Pants.

It was a fine show and the thought that went into it is commendable. Markovich received the Chamber's equivalent of the Oscar for his excellent portrayal of an aging Spirit who believed he had the power of upstaging everyone else by stealing their lines.

Belotz was Belotz. What more can one say: He looked and played a role he has practiced all his life. And Sargen, in his role of Tiny Tim, may be requested to join SIR. Miss Daly City was brave getting on the same stage with that trio.

But the finest job of acting for our money was by Spadarella. He never once forgot his lines and acted seriously throughout the skit. Either he has great control or he's as nutty as the rest of 'em.

The Public Voice

Editor, The Times: We the students of South San Francisco High School would like to react to your article of November 8 concerning the Human Relations Conference held at the San Mateo Villa Hotel. Although the first day was somewhat confusing, we believe that more was accomplished besides the absence from school and the utilization of $5,000 of tax money.

in which these themes relate to religion and to society.

As the title of the conference states, Youth Leads the Way in Social Change, we not only sat and listened during the three day conference, but now have begun to act on what we feel has to be revised. We have started a club which deals with defining the minority groups in our school and bridging some of the obstacles concerning minority groups.

In spite of the fact that it seemed that some were not participating, we have found that to the students from our school the conference was valuable, educational and inspiring.

Robbins: Only
Two Interests

Seventy-five million books sold isn't a bad figure for an author who began writing late in life. Harold Robbins, former Universal Pictures vice president in charge of finance, averages a book every three years and of his 11 novels, seven have already been made into films and the others are pending.

"The Betsy," (Trident Press, $7.95) is his latest and deals with an automotive dynasty that covers three generations of the aggressive, competitive, lusty, cunning, tough and dirty Harde-man family.

"General Motors feels it's about their founder Alfred Sloan. The Ford people think it's about themselves. And at Chrysler, they think it's about the Dodge brothers. I'm only sure of one thing and that's that Henry Ford isn't in the book," the native New Yorker, who was born in Hell's Kitchen and grew up in Harlem explained.

"If I can get my cast without bankrupting Warner Brothers (who put financing into Robbins' production company, Cinema Video Communication, Inc.), I'd like John Wayne as the tough, ruthless Loren One."

"I've never had artistic control of the films before but this time I have a voice. The cast I want would cost them six million but I'd like to get Sinatra out of retirement to do Angelo; Jane Fonda as Cindy; Vanessa Redgrave as Loren Two's wife, Susanah York as Bobbie and conduct a search for Betsy."

"If Sinatra won't do it, as an old friend, I'd settle for Al Pacino."

Robbins' publisher is already pushing for another book, this time about politics. But the prolific author feels living in Cannes, France, for 15 years has put him out of touch with what's happening in this country, politically. Because he wants his seven-year-old daughter to attend American schools, he's bought a home in Beverly Hills and will move to California.

He thought about the Betsy book for nine years and put the ideas together two years ago. In March of last year, he checked into the Alysee Hotel in New York, drew the blinds so he couldn't tell day from night, had his meals sent up and wrote the 501-page novel in 17 weeks.

"I only went out three times, once on my birthday, again on my attorney's birthday, and when we moved into our new house."

His press agent offered the anecdote that Robbins, being a romanticist, flew out to California the day they took possession of their new house, carried his wife over the threshold and flew back 24 hours later.

He employed three translators to work on foreign language technical papers from Russia, Japan and Germany and seven researchers. No director has been set and he admits no copies of the book, already climbing on the best seller lists, have been sent to any of those performers he wants to star.

"I'm waiting for the screenplay to see how well the characters will be written."

Robbins never writes his own screenplays. He claims it's "too much work," although he works steadily for 16 hours a day when he's writing a novel.

"I was paid a lot of money to write the script on 'The Adventurers,' but then the director, Lewis Gilbert said it was 'too sexy, too violent, and too much like the book.' So he wrote it, they spent 14 million to make it, and it was a lousy movie."

"I've only had two interests in life: girls and automobiles. Until the age of 14, I could stand on a corner and tell you what make car was coming down the street. Then I discovered girls. Now I own seven cars."

"I write large novels that don't translate well into movies. That's why I don't sit down and do a straight movie script. Screenplay writing is an art unto itself and I don't have the patience for it."

"I'm a loner, I'd go crazy having to confer with a lot of people."

Mills Takes Title

By JERRY LITTELL

After three clutch performances in four days, Mills High School today reigns as champion of the sixth annual El Camino Invitational Basketball Tournament, the Peninsula's finest practice cage showcase.

Mills, using its height advantage over the Oceana Sharks to the utmost degree, edged the game Sharks, 54-50, in the final Saturday evening in front of a jam-packed gymnasium.

Riordan took third place in an earlier game by blasting host El Camino, 84-60. St. Ignatius won the consolation title by pasting Tamalpais, 72-42, while Jefferson downed San Mateo, 54-45 for seventh place.

Rebounding strength, especially on the offensive boards, was the telling factor for the Vikings, who outrebounded their foes, 27-10. Free throw accuracy, the big factor in getting the Sharks to the finals, wasn't with the Pacifica crew in the finals as they missed 13 of 25 including four bonus attempts in the final period alone.

Andy Amstrup's 10-footer with three minutes left was the winning margin as it gave the Vikings a 52-46 lead. Chuck Hextrum then drove baseline for a layup with exactly two minutes left before Rick Whitmore brought the Sharks a point closer with a free throw.

Rich Wereda popped in an 18-footer and Art Thomas added another free throw to bring the crowd to its feet with 55 seconds left. But after an exchange of turnovers, Amstrup hit a follow shot with 10 seconds left to ice the victory.

El Camino, suffering through pre-season pangs with injuries and several inexperienced people at key spots, just couldn't stay with the equally small but much more knowledgeable Crusaders. Again the Colts were able to stick with an opponent because of sticky defense in the first period but once Riordan adjusted it was all over.

Junior Rich Wright scored 22 points for Camino but the game got so far out of line that 13 Crusaders were able to play and score.

St. Ignatius, probably the best-schooled team in the tournament by upending San Mateo's Bearcats. Despite missing nine free throws, Jeff's Ken Smith popped in 22 points and had five blocked shots. The best the Bearcats could do was a 14-point performance from forward Steve Viehwig.

Paul Baldoche and Jim Feeney, two excellent floor men and both All-Tournament selections, combined for 33 points to lead the SI attack but it was the defense that stole the show by stopping super prep star Will Garner to just 10 frustrating points.

Jefferson got its first win of the tournament in the battle for last place by upending San Mateo's Bearcats. Despite missing nine free throws, Jeff's Ken Smith popped in 22 points and had five blocked shots. The best the Bearcats could do was a 14-point performance from forward Steve Viehwig.

Gayle Graziano was chosen Tournament Queen by the judges. The Camino senior, the first host school girl chosen in six years, handed out the All-Tournament awards to the 10 top players.

Sportscripts

People keep asking me if I'm going to do anything special for Christmas, and I keep saying, "Yeh, I'm going to play Scrooge at Macy's, and when the little kids come up to me asking me for an electric train, I'm going to slap them in the face and tell them, 'Go out and get a job, you little beggar.'"

And then I realize that the people want to know if I'm going to do anything special for Christmas by way of a sports column.

My answer is no, because Christmas has nothing to do with sports. Christmas doesn't affect athletes. If they're lucky, the coach will give them a half day off, especially on the road. Why, some teams even go so far as to play on Christmas Day!

And why not?

If they could play on the day John Kennedy got buried, they can certainly play on Christ's birthday.

SPEAKING OF CHRIST, some of you might be wondering whether George Allen was worth the fabulous contract plus fringe benefits he got to coach the Washington Redskins this year. The fact that in one year he took losers of three decades to a play-off berth is proof in itself that the guy did one helluva job.

But what most people forget is that he did it with the one and only really valuable asset he had going into Washington—quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, whom many experts say is the best passer in football today.

What really makes it astounding that the Redskins could play almost as if they didn't miss Jurgensen (think of what a tremendous psychological let-down it must have been for the whole Washington organization). Is that his replacement has been called a no-talent, gimpy cracker-arm, a guy who had been shunned by New Orleans, for goodness gracious... and even the 49ers!

We speak of course of Billy Kilmer, who throws the most accurate 50-yard wobbles we've seen since Frankie Albert used to throw accurate 20-yard wobbles.

Kilmer the Shotgun refugee has proven once again that guts, determination and a little human thinking can perform wonders against the computers.

IF, BY THE WAY, you've forgotten what Allen got to sign, it reads thusly:

A reported $25,000 home, purchased by the club, Allen to pay interest only. When the house is sold, the appreciation will go to Allen. But the depreciation, if any, will be absorbed by the club.

Reportedly, incentive bonuses include $5,000 for getting into the divisional playoff, $10,000 for getting into the conference championship, and $15,000 for getting into the Superbowl.

Also: a car and driver; a $250,000 life insurance policy during the tenure of his contract; an unlimited expense account; travel expenses for visiting his family in Los Angeles; hotel expenses in Washington, if needed; moving expenses from L.A. to Washington when the family moved to D.C.; six weeks vacation; permission to keep revenue from all radio, TV and advertising endorsements; complete supervision of the team, answerable only to the president of the Washington club and its board of directors (see that, Nixon, you were wasting your time); an option to purchase five percent of the stock for $500,000, pending outcome of a litigation brought by the heirs of the late George Preston Marshall.

Wonder what Billy Kilmer gets.

IF YOU WANT our big trade prediction in the NFL for next year, here it is: Darlyne Lamonia, for some solid defense help.

If that seems absurd to you on the surface, go beneath the surface. Sure, when the Raiders got Lamonia is when they (Please See Page 16, Column 5)

Trojans Recall Another Time

At halftime in their final game at the Cabrillo Tournament in Aptos Saturday, the Skyline College basketball players thought long and hard about the last time they had had a 16-point halfway lead over Monterey Peninsula.

That was at the opening of the season; MPC came back that time and surprised Skyline, 65-63.

But Saturday was another story: the Trojans continued a hot scoring pace and downed Monterey, 109-79.

In so doing, the Trojans played the following havoc with Cabrillo Tournament records:

1. Tied the record for number of points scored in a half (55 in the second 20 minutes);
2. Broke the record for most points in a game, and
3. Broke the individual record for most consecutive free throws (reserve Clarence Ham came in and went six for six at the line.)

The game was a seesaw affair in the first few minutes, but then Dale Conway, Chris Hansen and Matt Krieteich started burning the nets; Skyline took a 54-38 lead at the half.

Then the Trojans came out and got revenge for that earlier game.

The Trojans won't get much of a rest before Christmas; they travel to meet tough Laney Wednesday and Thursday host Chabot.

"We're going to have tough competition in the Camino Norte Conference this year," said Trojan coach Walt Rilliet. "That's why we've scheduled these tough teams for practice."

"But we've done well in our last three halves — We've scored 49, 54 and 55. If we can

A Coach's Despair

By STEVE JOHNSON

Tony Giammona, basketball coach at Westmoor High, is not a man easily driven to despair.

But until Wednesday's 44-43 edging of visiting Crestmoor, he might have been close. The Rams had lost five in a row. "I was getting a little worried there," said Giammona after the game. "That maybe we weren't going to win at all. No, really, I figured we'd come around in time, and it happened. But it was sure close."

Yep. Before a big fourth quarter finish finally shot down the Falcons, the Rams had been doing a great job repeating previous performances.

Leading by only one going into the second half, Crestmoor decided to make its move. With big center Emmett McCourt continually getting open underneath for lay-ups inside the Ram zone, the Falcons grabbed a 37-31 lead at the end of the quarter. Giammona looked worried on the bench. Those pains of despair were starting to take hold again.

No, Nothing Special

started to climb, and you don't give up on a proven star just because he maybe blows a game or two and has one of his teams out of championship running for the first time.

But Lamonia has been injury-prone in the last few years, the fact is that the Raiders might have won the division again with a Lamonia completely on his stick, and Al Davis is an impatient man. Losing a championship — even one — when Al thinks you have a good shot at it is . . . well, you might as well lose 10 of them. Davis plays to win only. He doesn't like closies.

The signs were there in the Kansas City game when Lamonia was lifted early in the second quarter and never given a chance to return. A coach just doesn't do that with an established star who has often gotten off slowly and just as often finished fast — not in such a crucial game.

Unless, of course, there is some loss of confidence. And when that happens between a coach and a quarterback, it's usually final.

Add the factors of brash and brilliant Kenny Stabler chomping at the nose-guard in the wings and George Blanda, who might be a solid back-up QB for another two or three years, remember the fact that the Raiders finished lower in the defensive statistics than they have in years, and all the elements are there for a block-buster trade.

BUT THAT'S THE WAY SPORTS are, and how's that for a cliché? The rise and relative fall on Lamonia might very well have to a large extent depended on the presence or absence of Warren Wells. Lamonia didn't have a really great year until Wells arrived, and zone defenses or not, nobody can tell us that Wells wouldn't have opened a few games up this year on the receiving end of Lamonia's now apparently out-of-fashion bombs.

And one last note on the Raiders. Blanda showed a lot of courage throwing for the bomb on short yardage situations on third and fourth downs in the waning seconds of that game with KC. George is a cool customer. While what he did might not have been by the book, had he connected just once it might have been one more miracle, and one doesn't perform miracles by going by the book.

LOCAL NOTES — Foreign intrigue has been added to the North Peninsula League this year. Camille Broye, a Swiss-French foreign exchange student at Terra Nova, not only made the varsity cross country team (he finished third in one race, instead of first, when he lost his way and had to ask a passersby directions to the finish line), but has now won a spot on the varsity basketball roster. At a wirey 6-3, Camille is an imposing bench figure.

Handsome Camille, who sometimes has to fight off swarms of girls just to get to the practice field or gym, never played organized basketball in Switzerland because there isn't any at the high school level.

"We just shoot baskets for fun," says Camille. Ditto for cross country. The only running Camille ever did in his native land, he says, was by himself.

The Story Behind Current S.M. School Turmoil

By JOHN HORGAN

The strident cries surrounding a variety of issues connected with the San Mateo City School District continue to grow in intensity with each passing week.

Emotions are growing taut as the district's 1971 fall semester comes to a close without a new superintendent and with its philosophy of education in a state of flux.

There is talk about bitterness and division in the city's large elementary district — and the situation doesn't figure to improve much next year.

The meetings of the district's Board of Trustees have become little more than a public platform for virtually any and all individuals who disagree with the plans, positions and attitudes of the present board members.

There have been nights in the recent past when the board has actually adjourned only to find that someone had taken over a microphone to voice yet another statement of concern.

The gist of the remarks normally uttered by those in the audience at most meetings is that some elements in the community and in the district itself don't like to see the work of the former board and the ex-superintendent, Harold DePue, questioned or changed.

Under the leadership of DePue, the district became one of the state's pacesetters in the matter of integration and busing to achieve that end. The emphasis on human relations was strong.

However, even as DePue and his followers instituted great changes, there were many in the city who fought them. Their fight has borne some recent fruits.

The upshot has been that the board now has a 4-1 shift away from that type of emphasis instead of the prior 3-2 leaning for it. And, in addition to that, DePue has resigned.

Thus, the district is currently in a state of some turmoil, both externally and internally.

The notion, propounded by more than one board member, that the district's philosophy ought to be revised has aroused a great deal of resentment in some parts.

Those committed to what has been called an emphasis on the "affective domain" of education (the feeling realm if you will) are hitting back at some of the proposed changes as promulgated by at least one board member, Dr. Gene Bruce. Dr. Bruce is one of two new trustees. The other is William Kenney, an attorney. Both men won rather easily in the last board election.

A common complaint at the last several board meetings has been that the board members do not pay attention to and then act according to the parade of speakers who regularly address the board. They say the board does not respond to the will of the people.

Dr. Bruce and others have said that the board is elected by the people and that it could not be more representative of the community at large.

Some individuals have pointed to the board's recent firing of the district's director of public information as evidence of the board's alleged wish for privacy and secrecy.

The charge has also been leveled that the former director of information, Mrs. Hannah Shields, was fired because she was a staunch backer of the policies of DePue.

Board members have denied this and they say she was fired because the position was simply being eliminated as a budgetary savings measure.

On the matter of what to do about a new superintendent, the same concerned people, some of whom are teachers in the city, are fearful that the board will, by definition, select someone who has leanings away from the kind of philosophy and actions that DePue favored.

Publicly, Dr. Bruce has said that he won't vote for an individual who does not agree with his views on a philosophy of education. And Dr. Bruce's opinions about education hardly coincide with those of a man like DePue. That was one of the major reasons that the Foster City surgeon was elected last summer.

The other board members have stated at public meetings that they will vote for someone who is qualified and who fits the district's philosophy of education at the time of the selection.

There has been more than a little comment about the manner in which the new superintendent is being picked — and the feeling from some quarters (the same people, by and large, who oppose any moves towards a more traditional educational approach) is that the community again is not involved enough in that selection process.

Some board members have answered that by noting that there is indeed ample representation on the committee and that, in fact, the board itself is the final decision-making body on who the new man or woman shall be. And the board, they say, is an elected unit clearly representative of all the people.

But the district's many outspoken factions are far from being assuaged by any statements from board members.

Concerned groups are being formed to combat all of the suspected moves which the board might be contemplating and there is an increasing air of hostility and suspicion as issues and plans are presented.

The situation has gotten to the point where it seems that no one interested in the district can be lukewarm. You are supposed to be on either one side or the other. The divisions are clear: You either favor what DePue and his changes stood for or you don't.

At the public meetings themselves there are now occasional outbursts of ill manners and displays of poor taste.

Meetings planned in advance along strictly structured lines can degenerate now into mere sessions for harangue and name-calling.

The situation is somewhat reminiscent of what occurred in the district back in the mid-Sixties when DePue's controversial busing and integration programs were being instituted.

At that time there was great bitterness on the other side, the side of the traditionalists.

During that period, the forces of change won out only after a long and protracted struggle.

DePue himself was worn down at the time and, at one community meeting at least, he broke down in tears as he related some of the trauma he was undergoing.

As some see it, however that fight was never really won completely. The other side was only biding its time, waiting as it were to ready its guns to blast away at those long-debated innovations.

The summer election and the resignation of DePue confirmed all the fears of those in the vanguard of change in the district.

And now the war has resumed with a fury.

The opening salvos are perhaps a mere hint of the furor still to come.

Sr. Forum Slate Picked

Clifford E. Miller was elected president of the Senior Forum of San Mateo County at its annual meeting at Little House, Menlo Park, last week. Approximately 200 seniors attended.

The forum, organized in 1962, to provide staff service to senior centers, clubs and groups, serves 4500 members.

Projects, principally those too large for individual groups, include group insurance, annual picnic, county booth and senior talent contest at county fair, and aiding various charities, as well as selecting a senior man and woman of the year in the county.

Miller, of 1095 Eden Bower Lane, Redwood City, is a director of Terrace Investors and associated with Terrace Realty, Redwood City.

He was a delegate at large to the White House Conference on Aging and has just returned from the Capitol conference. He is president-elect of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, a commissioner on the Commission on Aging appointed by the county Board of Supervisors, and a director of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Burlingame's Sewer Problems Face New Operation

By GEORGE GOLDING

Whether Burlingame's sewage treatment plant is properly operated or not is almost of no importance in the over-all plan for developing a Bay Area disposal system.

Burlingame "has problems. Despite having built a plant described as "the most sophisticated" in the Bay Area, the city remains in constant dispute with the Regional Water Quality Control Board for the manner in which its reports are made and the manner in which its tests are made.

San Mateo County's health department keeps an eye on water pollution along the Bayside, and reports that a sample of Burlingame plant's "effluent" contains too many germs to be considered safe for swimming in.

The city remains on the Regional Water Quality Board's list of communities against which a "cease and desist" order has been lodged.

Local politicians say this is simply more of the continuing unyielding pressure being exerted on cities, to make them comply with a state-originated scheme.

No matter how good the cities might do with sewage treatment, they claim, they will be forced to build expensive "deep water outfall" lines to mid-bay.

The power that allows the local cities to be forced to agree is that sewage treatment plants are so costly, and sewage outfall lines so expensive, that no city can build either without borrowing federal money.

Both the Regional Water Quality Control Board and the new Bay Area Sewage Services Agency, must approve of any local plans before an application can even be submitted to the federal government for aid money.

The Association of Bay Area Governments, and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which will be represented on BASSA, must also "OK" any applications before federal money is granted. This is because of a federal requirement that any local plan fit into the area's regional plan, before it can be granted money.

The Federal Environmental Protection Agency, which also would have to approve any local application, is a member of the new Bay Area Sewage Services Agency with power at both the local and federal level.

Some people involved in water quality control say that "deep water" disposal of sewage is not the only alternative, nor the most satisfactory choice for San Francisco Bay. They say deep water sewage disposal will also be terribly expensive, and that such a system will inevitably be outgrown at some future date.

"Re-Cycling" of sewage efficient local treatment plants, they say, is a much more satisfactory answer in the long run, and would be much less costly.

The dedication of the Regional Water Quality Control Board to a basin plan, forbids the creation of any such treatment plant by any local agency, simply because the regional group has the right to refuse funds for construction.

Another power of the new agency, BASSA, will be to levy taxes.

According to Raymond A. Boege, engineer manager of the Union Sanitary District in Fremont and chairman of the nine-county coordinating committee which has been named to bring BASSA into active being, taxing power is limited.

"BASSA's planning and administrative costs will be financed directly out of county funds, with each of nine counties paying a share proportional to its population," Boege said.

"The counties may raise the revenue of these costs by collecting sewage service charges from county residents, or they may apportion the cost directly among local agencies owning or operating water pollution control facilities.

share of BASSA's operating costs may exceed the equivalent of a tax rate of one-half cent per $100 of assessed valuation, or 37.5 cents per year to an owner of property worth $30,000."

A related factor in the creation of BASSA, is that staff-level committees within the Bay Area, have already been at work for several months, adapting the "basin plan" for water quality control.

San Mateo has an advisory committee which has the task of creating a county-wide plan. The county and its member cities are now approving a shared method of financing an $80,000 study to develop a county-wide proposal that will meet the requirements of the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Chairman of the San Mateo County advisory committee, is Robert V. Bernicchi, head of the staff of the North San Mateo County Sanitary District at Daly City.

Bernicchi is also one of the nine people named to create the new agency, BASSA, which would have the power to approve or disapprove of any county-wide plans now being created.

Boege suggests that the power of taxation, is not the greatest authority to be held by the new board.

He says the regional water quality management plan "must be adopted no later than January 1, 1974. BASSA will be able to implement the plan by exercising veto power over water pollution control projects by local governmental agencies which do not conform with the regional plan."

"Implementation, insofar as possible, will be carried out by local agencies operating sewage treatment facilities, but BASSA has the authority to step in and do the job itself if local government either cannot or will not act."

2 Suspended Clerks Win Retired Pay

Mrs. Catherine F. Juliani and Mrs. Marcelline Yost, suspended chief and deputy chief clerks respectively of the Southern District Municipal Court, were granted full retirement benefits this week by the San Mateo County Board of Retirement.

The retirement was granted after Deputy District Attorney Henry Dietz ruled that the two women, who face embezzlement charges, are eligible for retirement benefits, having contributed to their retirement during the course of their employment with the county.

Mrs. Juliani and Mrs. Yost are scheduled to appear in Superior Court early in January for arraignment on the charges against them. They were arrested October 19 on charges of embezzlement, theft of public funds and destroying public records.

Mrs. Yost, who has been chief deputy of the Municipal Court since 1953, was granted retirement as of December 1, and Mrs. Juliani, chief clerk since 1952, will have her retirement effective January 1.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson has reported that review of the court records handled by the two women still is being conducted by the controller's office, with possible filing of a civil suit for recovery of funds determined to be missing.

Mrs. Rusch Is Director

Mrs. Clarence Rusch of 1384 H. I. Circle, Burlingame and a member of the Burlingame Elementary School District Board of Trustees was elected Director of the California School Board Association during the recent convention held in San Francisco. Previously to her election Mrs. Rusch had served as a member of the Delegate Assembly of the CSBA from Region 5, which comprises the counties of San Mateo, San Francisco, and Marin.

Appointed to the Burlingame Elementary School Board in 1964, Mrs. Rusch was re-elected to that position in 1965 and again in 1968. She served as President of the Board in 1968-69 and as Secretary to the San Mateo County School Board Association for two years, 1968 and 1969.

She is a graduate of Stanford University and was named Burlingame "Citizen of the Year, 1965," as well as receiving the Soroptimist Club "Woman of Achievement, 1970 Award."

Cap Loses Battle But Could Win the War

By STEVE LOKKER

You've heard of winning the battle but losing the war.

Well, on Friday, the Mustangs of Capuchino may have won the war after losing the battle.

The Mustangs, with their 2-4 record and six unimpressive showings for the year, hosted San Francisco's Balboa Bucs, who sported an auspicious 7-1 mark.

Cap did lose the battle to the Bucs, 61-56, but it might have started them on the long road to winning the war.

The Mustangs seemed outclassed at every turn. To begin with, Rob Silver sat the bench, along with his 25-point average, because of a bad knee.

And then there was Balboa's height advantage. Carl Washington stands 6-5 and Siegen Keyes 6-4. Dave Smith is 6-3 but his 27-point average is even more awesome.

But in the end, the Mustangs didn't fold and collapse like a lot of people on both sides of the gym expected them to. True, they fell behind 15-3 during the first period after leading, 4-1.

But the real story can be seen in the second and third periods. In that time span of only 16 minutes, Cap may have found the two generals to lead them to the overall victory they have been looking for. And with Silver on the sidelines for at least two more weeks, nothing can hurt.

John Bomba, after playing a blab first quarter, picked Cap up by the seat of his pants in the second stanza and put them right back into the ball game.

His 11-point effort, easily the best eight-minute effort by an individual in the game, propelled the Mustangs to within two points, 27-25, with only a minute showing on the first half clock.

The Bucs closed the first half with a 31-25 lead but Cap was a little stronger because of it.

SSF Rebounds and Triumphs

By JERRY LITTRELL

Long advocates of finesse in basketball, the South San Francisco High Warriors added a new dimension to their attack Wednesday, and it came not a moment too soon.

Riding a three-game losing streak, their longest in seven years, the Warriors used muscle on the boards to rally for a 61-57 victory over Washington of the City in a game S.S.F. virtually had to win — momentum and morale being prime factors in the prep cage wars.

S.S.F. center Lynn Simmons led a Warrior charge in the middle two periods that saw the South City quintet overcome a 19 point deficit by outscoring the visiting Eagles 26-3, mostly on second and third shots off strong offensive rebounding.

The Warriors may have lulled the Eagles to sleep with atrocious play in the first ten minutes.

Failing to run well at all and throwing the ball away even on the occasional pattern offense, Klein's driving lay-in with three minutes left in the third period gave the Warriors a 39-37 lead, their first.

Slowly but surely the Warriors closed that gap until Keith

Although tied twice more, they never trailed again.

South S.F. Dumps the Falcons

By DAN BERTELOTTI

One thing a basketball coach cannot do is lose his best ballhandler and really hope to beat the South San Francisco Warriors.

The Crestmoor Falcons, missing George Ama, probably their best all-around player, fell to the full court pressing tactics practiced by the Gene Mullin-coached Warriors, 82-63.

Ama missed his second straight game with a gland infection, which, according to coach Pete Pontacq, may keep him out of action for up to two weeks.

The taller, slower Falcons were no match for the speed-burners from South City. In the first quarter the two teams battled on even terms with South City blocking off well on the defensive boards, while Crestmoor managed to work men free inside against the sagging Warrior defense.

With about six minutes remaining in the second period, things didn't look good for South City. The Warriors were trailing by six when their top rebounder, Lynn Simmons, picked up his third foul.

But the Warriors battled back behind the scoring of Bill Bryant. Just when it looked like Crestmoor would go into the dressing room with a lead, Kellner drove in for a lay-up and was fouled; he then proceeded to complete a three-point play.

That put South City back on top, 36-34 at the half, a lead that they never relinquished.

In the second half the Falcons really needed Ama. The Warriors hounded them at every opportunity.

When South City got the ball on offense they ran and ran; whether it be via a steal or an outlet pass, Mullin would stand up and yell "run," which has to be the Warrior battle cry.

Going into the final stanza the Warriors had a comfortable 57-43 lead, and coasted home from there. The closest the Falcons could come was nine points, twice in the period.

The main culprit for South City was center Simmons, who finished as the game's leading scorer with 22 tallies. Two other Warriors scored in double figures — Mason Larkin with 13 and Marty Gale with 10.

Larkin and Gale, along with Keith Klein, were the key men on the press that completely unnerved the San Bruno outfit.

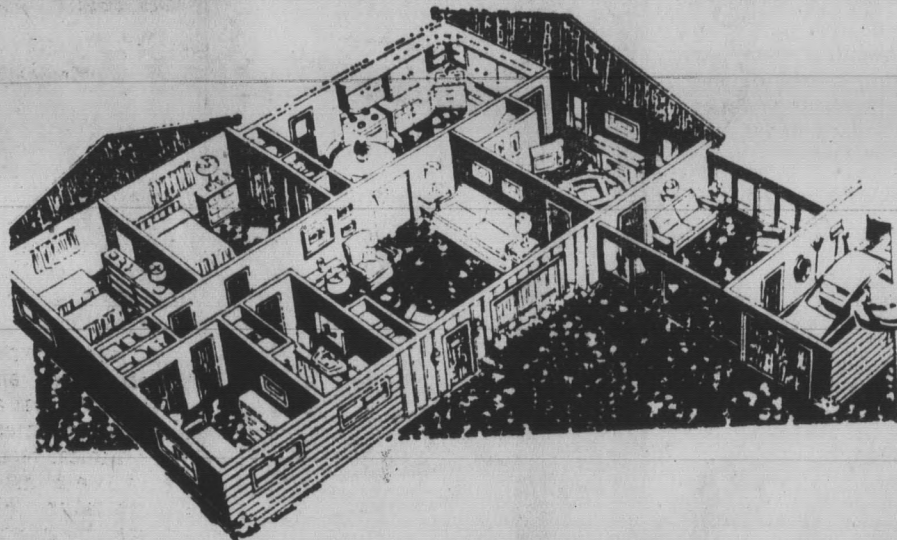

Crestmoor got a fine one-two punch from guard Bruce Patterson and forward Bill Shaughnessy, who ended up with 17 and 18 respectively.

Broadmoor Presbyterian Schedules 'Youth Sunday'

Stephen "Steve" Golden, student assistant pastor at Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, will preach Sunday at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services on the subject, "Cobwebs in the Door."

This is College Student Homecoming Sunday for the 40-plus youth of the Daly City-Colma congregation.

Steve also will play the violin at Friday's Christmas Eve Carol Candelight Service beginning at 11. Steve was a solo violinist with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

A pre-service concert of English Carol Music will begin at 10:30 p.m. with organist Carl Eagle, mezzo-soprano Delia Voittoff, and recorder player George Voittoff.

Mrs. Voittoff will sing seven carols in English from "Hodie Christus Natus Est" from Ceremony of Carols written by Benjamin Britten.

Golden is in his third year as a pre-ministerial student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary (Presbyterian) located at Berkeley and San Anselmo.

THE SALVATION ARMY Service Extension Committee in Daly City recently installed the Rev. Timothy Rudolph (third from left) past of St. Martin's Episcopal Church as chairman, succeeding the Rev. James McCluskey (second from left), now pastor of Calvary Presbyterian Church, San Francisco; other members present: Col. Charles A. Bearchell (left), area service representative; Mrs. Lyl Ingersoll, welfare secretary (third from right); Mrs. Howard Derham; and Police Lt. Phillip La Bruzzo (right).

'Can Help,' Says Pastor in D.C.

"We can help the less fortunate of our community have a Merry Christmas and give them new hope for the coming year by supporting The Salvation Army's 1971 Christmas and Welfare Appeal," said the Rev. Timothy Rudolph, rector of St. Martin's Church and chairman of the Daly City area Salvation Army Service Unit Committee.

The Service Unit, he explained, is comprised of volunteer civic leaders who provide vitally needed services locally in keeping with established Salvation Army policies.

A mail appeal has gone out. He said, "Let us retain the traditional meaning of the Christmas season he asks, by helping others."

Bay Area Robbery Suspects Arrested

John Stanley Syzkiewicz and Ernest Lakey, wanted for questioning in connection with a series of armed robberies in the Bay Area, were arrested by police in Torrance, California, on Monday.

A posse of ten detectives led by Torrance police detective Mike Dersham, took the pair without a struggle as they entered an apartment building the suspects had rented in that city.

Dersham said both men were heavily armed.

Inside the car they were driving police allegedly uncovered several weapons, including an automatic pistol and a sawed-off shotgun, along with a quantity of hard drugs and pills.

Police had been tipped by an anonymous caller from the Bay Area after their photos were recognized in newspapers, Dersham said.

The detective "planted" two officers inside the fugitive's apartment, two more on a rooftop across the street, and the remaining officers at strategic points nearby.

"It was just a routine arrest... no trouble," Dersham said. Syzkiewicz, alias John Warren, and Lakey, alias Jamey McNeil, are wanted for a score of robberies in San Francisco, San Mateo and Alameda counties in which money and drugs were taken at gunpoint.

Two other suspects in the ring — Vincent Allen Smith of Daly City, and James Edward Dudley of San Francisco — are already in custody.

Some of the more recent robberies the men are charged with is the holdup of Denney's Restaurant at Serramonte, White Oaks Pharmacy (twice) in San Carlos and a Fremont auto firm.

Vesper Service To Replace Gospel Hour

Sunday evening, December 26th, instead of the regularly scheduled Family Fellowship Gospel hour at 7 p.m. There will be no Sanctuary Choir practice, or Fellowship groups meeting that evening.

"Let's Review" will be the topic for the devotional by Pastor Donnelly for that service. Special feature will be the showing of a film by World Wide Pictures entitled "You and Your World." This is a promotional film highlighting the film "Two a Penny".

This film will be shown by World Wide Films, at the Fox Skylene Theatre in San Bruno, February 2 through 8. This promotional film outlines the Operation Andrew program, which will be conducted prior to and during the public showing of the film. Special music will be provided for that service also.

The church emphasizes the need for Christian instruction for the entire family, with age graded classes, nursery through college, and two adult classes.

Because of Christmas vacation, there will be no GMG. Boy's Brigade meetings or Women's Bible Classes, until the first week of January, 1972.

Wednesday, December 22, 7:30 p.m., Bible study and prayer hour meets in the church sanctuary.

Westside Baptist Church is affiliated with the Baptist General Conference, and is located at 390 Inverness Drive, (Fairmont) Pacifica.
